Insurance.

J. M. S. CRATTY Insurance Agent, Bellaire, O. REPRESENTING THE OLDEST AND MOST

The La Crosse Democrat has larger circulation than any Democratic paper in the United States. This fact proves that a very large proportion of those who call themselves Democrats approve its sentiments. Here is one of its latest expressions; it appeared in that paper on the 15th of April last:

Do you blame us when we say that God was just in sending John Wilkes Booth, on that dark Good Friday night, three years ago—the darkest and gloomiest in American history—to strike the traitor down, and liberate the white freemen of America from the yoke of a des-pot? God is just. He struck the tyrant Lincoln from existence at an hour when the country could no longer bear the ourden of him; and God, in his wisdom, cannot let the free people of America, whom he has so protected and prespered, long remain chafing under the rule of any despot.

A club of subscribers for this filthy paper has just been made up at this P. O. and the leading Democrats of the town and County are among the sub-

Just the Bifference. The Chicago Tribune states the disinction between the Republican and Democratic tickets in Illinois—a distinction which relates to the two parties. It is as follows: In addition to General Palmer, the Convention selected and nominated from Convention selected and nominated from the ranks of the soldiers of Illinois, General Charles E. Lippincott for Au-ditor, General G. M. Bates for Treasurer, and General John A. Logan for Con-gressman at large. While one of these men—General Bates—was lying in pris-on at Andersonville, starving for food and undergoing martyrdom from his un-dressed wounds, and his colleagues were at the front, fighting for their country, John R. Eden and Bill O'Brien, and others on the Democratic ticket, were at home making speeches against any fur-ther "offensive" prosecution of the war, which they declared was a failure. The two parties now present representative men; the Republicans put forward Pal-mer, Logan, Bates and Lippincott, [all soldiers of the Union, who are opposed by Eden, O'Brien, Shanaon and other opponents of the war, and sneaking allies of the rebellion.

The Demosratic Key Note. The Washington correspondent of the Charleston Courier writes: Some of the Democratic politicians, despairing of the availability even of General Hancock or Pendleton, are now earnestly urging Senator Hendricks, of Indiana, upon the attention of the party as a suitable candidate for the Presidency. Mr. Hendricks as the nominee for the first, and Governor English or Mayor Hoffman for the second office, will com-mand a very strong support, but it can-not be denied that Mr. Pendleton has struckthe political key to which the whole West respond. Repudation and paper money are the demands of the West.— Mr. Pendleton had the sagacity to see this condition of the public mind a year in advance of the Republican leaders, and promptly availed himself of it. Of promptly and satisfactorily.

and promptly availed himself of it. Of course he abjured all the old principles of the Democratic party for the sake of new and more popular issues. The abolition of slavery was never more popular in the West than is now the repudiation of the west than is now the repudiation. of the public debt in the same section of country. The $3,000,000,000 in slave property have been destroyed, and an equal amount in Government securities represents the cost of slavery extinction.— The West assisted in contracting the debt, but refuses to pay it. Mr. Pendle-ton is, however, consistent in his position for he was opposed to the war, and to the abolition of slavery, and to the contrac-tion of the war debt.

The New York Organ out of Tune. The New York World, of Wednesday, n an able article on How the National Banks Impede Specie payments, holes which will redeem them in specie on demand; but let the privilege of issuing notes be suspended until they will com-ply with this condition. But so long as we submit to the curse of an irredeema-ble paper currency, let us have the offsets and compensations (such as they are) of this mischievous infliction.

And again. Of the two ways of reaching specie payments we believe that the gradual and steady withdrawal of the greenbacks would have been the better. The reason is, that when the greenbacks were so diminished in quantity as to bring gold down to a premium of about five per cent., we should have the substantial advantages of a redeemable bank circulation with a more stable financial condition than would be immediately possible in an outright resumption of specie payments. There would be no danger of a run upon the banks to get green-backs for exportation ; and when exempt from this source of disturbance; the currency would be nearl; as healthy for internal purposes as if redeemable in the precious metals. If the banks had to redeem in something nearly as valuable as gold, redemption would be no longer a sham ; and as soon as our industries supplied exports enough to bring the foreign balances is our favor, it would be a short step on firm ground to specie payments.

The World says : "The country suffers, and is likely long to suffer, in consequence of Western fallacies in finances." Is the World a Democratic paper ? Let us here from the St. Clairsville Gazette.

JAMES OSBORNE. The Colored Democracy.

We notice, says the New York Evening Post, signs in different Southern papers that Democratic politicians begin to accept the situation. The Savannah News, for instance, which is a most rancorous Democratic sheet, in its issue of the 28th of April heads a leading editorial article with the words, "The Colored Democracy of the South," and quotes the following letter from Marshalville, in Georgia: in Georgia:

in Georgia:

"I wrote you day before yesterday that we had one hundred and fifty colored men to carry to the polls at Oglethorpe. We carried them, and they voted the straight Democratic ticket. As we came back ou the train the ladies of Montezuma presented us with a beautiful flag, with the name of 'Gordon' inscribed upon it. When we got to Andersonville we did not open our stores, but went to work again, and yesterday we went down with one hundred and fifty more voters; each man, black and white, wearing a badge (a piece of pink ribbon) in his button hole. The enthusiasm was intense; badge (a piece of pink ribbon) in his button hole. The enthusiasm was intense;
the negroes whooping and shouting for the Democrats and Gordon. When we arrived at Montezuma we were presented with another banner, on which was inscribed, 'Gordon our Governor.' It was presented by Mr. Neal, of that place, in behalf of the ladies, and was received by Major Booton in behalf of the Marshalvilians, with a soul-stirring speech of about five minutes' duration. We then started for Orlethorne, Arriving then started for Oglethorpe. Arriving there the negroes were formed in line by twos; one banner was put at the head, one in the center and one at the foot of the column. The word forward was given, and I never heard such yells for 'Gordon and Georgia' in my life. There was not a Radical to be seen on the street, and we had everything our own way.—About twelve o'clock. Frail. the negro About twelve o'clock, Frail, the negro candidate for the Legislature, made his appearance. The negroes went for him, and would have handled him roughly had not the soldiers and whites inter-fered for his protection. The guard per-formed their duty promptly, but showed no disposition to go beyond the line of their duty, by interfering in the election."

The News commonts on this, in these words: "The writer mentions the name of several prominent colored men who took an active part in the election and work-ed zealously for the success of the demoeratic party.

"This, with numerous other incidents that have come to our knowledge, gives us assurance that the newly enfranchised, as they come to understand their true interests, will be a prolific source of democratic strength."

The same journal remarks: "As information reaches us from the people had not been deceived and corrupted by lying emissaries and miscreant renegades and office-seeking traitors, we are confirmed in the opinion that, if the proper steps had been taken in time to enlighten the race in regard to the true issues involved in the late election, and the character and designs of their pretended friends, a very large number of the more intelligent and respectable men among them could have been in-duced to have cast their votes for the true interests of the State." Whenever the democratic party accepts the new order of things, and cordially favors impartial suffrage, we do not doubt it will be able to attract a considerable part of the colored vote. But so long as it apposes what it calls a negro suffrage, it will hardly get the support of the class whom its success would dis-

Mississippi Mortality and Morality. The Editor of the Democart, publish-at Yazoo City, Miss., in the last number of his paper drops attacks on Congrecs and the freedmen, the staple Southern and discourse on home mortality and morality. He says he has observed with wonder, that there is an unusual proportion of widows among the white Banks Impede Specie payments, holes the following language:

We must not be understood to advocate the unconditional suppression of bank notes under all circumstances.—
Let notes be issued by all the banks which will redeem them in specie on which will redeem them in specie on the following language:

proportion of widows among the white people of the place—about eighty in all—and many of them aged, white there are few, if any, old men. Last year the yellow fever occassioned a more than average mortality, but of those who died, twenty-seven were grown men, while only three or four deaths took place among the women, and only one of these from the epidemic. Stomachic diseases are the most prevalent, and the excess of mortality among the males the writer ascribes to the use of whiskey, and especially to the habit of drinking on an empty stomach. He then asks:

Are there twenty men in Yazoo City who do not average from three to nine drinks daily? and what is worse, they take them on empty stomachs, when the liquor having nothing with which it can assimilate, acts directly upon the mucous membrane. We do not mean to say that it is a dissipated place; on the coutrary, we have never seen elsewhere so little drunkenness; nor is the custom of a few daily bibulations more general here than in many other towns; but diseases are the most prevalent, and the here than in many other towns; but with the peculiar character of our common diseases the consequences are mare serious.

After the sensible remarks which we have quoted above, the critic conscious have quoted above, the critic conscious that he has been touching a tender point, apologetically says:

No gentleman need feel touched at our remarks, and say we are after meats in other people's eyes; for we very candidly acknowledge our partiality to the stuff, and if any one thinks we will not take it, just let him gring along a bottle and try us. But does that after the facts?
We are no doctor, and may be wrong: We are no doctor, and may be wrong; but the subject is worth consideration.

MRS. GREELEY advises young women in a practical way how they may pre-serve their health, and have red cheeks without the aid of rouge. Her words are: "Too many young girls sit moping within doors, over some trivial and worthless bit of fancy work, when they should be seeking vigor, elasticy and happiness from the life giving influences of wood and meadow, breeze and sun-shine. Pursue this out-door recreation and doctors' gigs in front of your resi-dences will be changed to the wagons of butchers and grocers, a consummation devoutly prayed for by every poor man with a house full of marriageble girls."

An exchange says: Don't be afraid to raise cabbages for the cows. Plant in rows three feet apart and fifteen inches in the row. Six or seven thousand can be grown on an acre. The Berger, Drumhead, Premium Flat Dutch and Stonemason are the best. They can be planted any time before the 15th of July.

To fill up time Mr. Dickey has introduced in the Senate a joint "resolution falsehood to start with, Connecticut being the only New England State in

This is strong language, Mr. Dickey.

Furthermere, Mr. Dickey, for the Democratic majority resolves that any Constitutional Amendment "declared to be ratified by counting the negro vote of any State or States where such vote is east by virtue of any act of Congress, ought to be held invalid, and the people of Ohio will not cosent to have the voice of its electors overriled by negro electors manufactured for that purpose by Conmanufactured for that purpose for the purpose of the statement Amelia, at San Francisco, in provided a decided success.

Mr. Dickey should have added, "and Congress ought to be ashamed of itself."
All this is very mischlevous, or very foolish, or both. If it means anything but empty wind it is indicative of meditated rebellion. If a mere wordy expression of opinion it is nonsensicial.—
Speeches will be made on the subject, mostly for buncombe and to take up time until Impeachment is settled, when the real pupose, if there is any ulterior design, will be manifested. We submit that such legislative fooling is expensive amusement at twelve hundred dollars per day.

A Good Invention.

Mr. James Miller, of Allegheny city, has invented an apparatus for distilling petroleum, for which letters patent have been granted, numbered 77070. The apparatus consists of two vacuum stills, from which the air is extracted by means from which the air is extracted by means of the District.

The American Home Missionary Society, at New York, employed during the year just closed in the hundered preachers and expended $224,688 of an air pump, one of which is used for heating the oil and draining off its more heating the oil and draining off its more volatile ingredients, and the other for carrying or a continuous distilation by feeding them the heated oil from the former still through a room, with operations at the bottom of the still. By keeping a uniform quantity of oil in the distilling tank it is claimed that the discolution from the terms of the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution from the terms of the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution from the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution from the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution from the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution from the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution from the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution from the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution from the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution from the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution from the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution from the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution from the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution from the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution from the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution from the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution from the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution of the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution of the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution of the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution of the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution of the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution of the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution of the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution of the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution of the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution of the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution of the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution of the stilling tank it is claimed that the discolution of the stilling tank it is claimed oration from the tar and other matter which accumulates and is burned on the bottom of the still by the ordinary meth-od is prevented. The invention has sev-eral other advantages over the present method of distilling, which readily pre-sent themselves upon examination of the apparatus, one of which is the very low degree of heat required, and the use of the gasses and condensed vapers as fuel for running the still. It is certainly a great invention, and if successful is des-tined to work a revolution in the oil trade, as it is claimed that it will reduce the expense of distilling at least one dollar per barrel. It is certainly worthy of the attention of oil men.-[Pitts. Gaz.

The Democratic Legislature of Ohio has consummated a gross outrage upon every soldier of the Union, by the passage of an act distranchising the soldiers in the Dayton Asylum—an institution where the veterans of that State, who were so crippled as to be unable to maintain themselves, were provided with a home. These mangled and scarred heroes do not vote the Democratic ticket, and the Democratic ticket, and the Democratic legislations of Ohio, by a strict party vote, declare that they shall have no voice in the government of the antion they fought to preserve! Let the soldiers of the Republic make a note of this, as indicating the gratitude of the Copperhead party for services rendered in the battle-field.
